Senior Counsellors

Senior counsellors are experienced practitioners available to advise a practitioner on any professional or ethical problem.

Some of the areas a senior counsellor may be able to assist include:

- advice on a professional or ethical problem
- career advice on options such as employment and partnership offers
- whether to report a particular situation to the Society
- whether a notification should be made to a professional indemnity insurer
- acting as an intermediary between the Society and a practitioner wishing to remain anonymous

Communication between a practitioner and a senior counsellor attracts the same degree of confidentiality as communications between a solicitor and client

Set out below are details of the senior counsellors and their locations for 2008/09 as at 30 June 2009.
